Information

Botrytis cinerea

Botrytis cinerea (grey mould) is a common fungus that can affect all parts of plants. It can colonise old, senescing leaves, especially in the autumn and is also associated with lack of air movement within a crop canopy. Maintaining good nursery hygiene such as clearing plant debris and weeds prior to setting down a new crop helps enormously in the control of this problem. Using fans and establishing air-flow within a crop canopy can also prevent spores from settling on soft growth. Consider using a routine fungicide programme along with good hygiene.

* = Extension of Authorisation required for use in ornamental plant production. Go to www.pesticides.gov.uk to download the information or contact the office for copies. Fandango, Frupica SC and Teldor are only approved for use on forest nurseries.

Avoid using products as successive treatments with the same FRAC code e.g. Folicur and Octave. Repeated use of pesticides with the same mode of action increases the risk of disease resistance.

Products without an ornamentals on- and off-label approval e.g. Folicur can be used under the replacement of the Long-Term Arrangements for Extension of Use until assessed by the CRD.

Octave has an end use date of 30th June 2017.
